WOMEN'S COMMITTEE TAKES UP LOCAL PRICE OF MILK

Will endeavor to have Joint Meeting with Dairymen's Ass'n

RECOMMEND CLEANER STREETS

The Board of Directors at their meeting yesterday entertained the Women's Committee who are interested in lowering the price of milk. It was felt that owing to the decrease in the price of feed, that there ought to be a corresponding decrease in the price of milk. The Women's committee reported the following prices in neighboring cities: Brownsville, 15c quart; Belle Vernon, 14c quart; Charleroi. 15c and 16c quart; Monongahela 16c quart and Pittsburgh 14c quart. The next meeting of the Board of Directors will be a joint meeting if such arrangements can be made with representatives of the Dairyman's Association and the Women's Committee. Also the women discussed with the Board the feasibility of securing ice at a lower price. The following resolution was presented to the Board of Directors: "Resolved: That the Women's Committee of the Chamber of Commerce recommend to the Board of Directors that all paved streets of the borough be thoroughly washed at least once a month, and that every effort be made to secure an automatic street flusher." This latter resolution will be given its due consideration by the Board of Directors.

Mr. Davidson of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company gave a short talk on the formation of a committee of "Owners of Railroad Securities." It was decided to discuss this matter more in detail at the next meeting of the Board.

The next matter for consideration was that of securing a proper placard for the Chamber of Commerce which might be distributed and which would advertise the Chamber in the community as no other scheme would do. The Secretary-Manager secured about twenty-five placards from the different Chambers of Commerce, and from among this number, it was thought that the Harrisburg placard would be the first choice of the Chamber, and that of Sharon,Pa., the second choice. The placards would contain some such words as these: "Member of Chamber of Commerce, Charleroi, Pa. All solicitors must present a certificate of endorsement from this organization." On the back of this card would be printed some rules and regulations especially in regard to solicitation. These placards would be the property of the Chamber of Commerce, and would be loaned to the members as long as they are in good standing.

In answer to the telegram which was sent one week ago. to Vice-President Colonel McCrea the following telegram has been received: "Your telegram yesterday. Careful consideration given Monongahela division points in preparation of time table to meet Pittsburgh daylight saving ordinance. and we understand new schedule satisfactory to points with possible exception of onora to Allenport inclusive. To advance one hour the schedule of No. 7708 would have this changed operating exactly on Schedule of 7904 between Pittsburgh and Monongahela City, and would be altogether unsatisfactory for points south of Allenport. Stated differently it would serve a community for a distance of ten miles only and would be unsatisfactory for approximately 65 miles. Train No. 7860 is scheduled only on Sundays. It is the only train from Pittsburgh south reaching Brownsville before 10:00 a. m., and to distrub its present schedule would be unsatisfactory to the point not affected by daylight saving plan. The new time table has been printed and distributed and in determining the schedule our aim has been to meet wishes of majority of our patrons It would be impossible to meet wishes of all of them to different standard of time used in the several communities."

The Membership committee held their meeting last evening in the Chamber of Commerce room, and went over the list of all delinquent members. J. B. Tussing, chairman of this committee was well pleased with the progress his large committee of thirty-one are making. Its success is not so much in the way of collecting dues as in the promotion of good feeling among the members of the Chamber. It will be the duty of this committee to take charge of the placards referred to above. and which was passed upon by the Board of Directors. They will decided how these placards will be distributed and other details at their next meeting.

Charleroi Leads in County Athletic Events

All entries for the annual field meet of the Washington County Interscholastic Athletic Association must be in the hands of President H. S. Kuder by this evening, and one week from tomorrow the events which determine the championship for the county will take place at College Field at Washington.

It is the classic athletic event of the school year for the hundreds of athletes of the various high schools of the county that have participated regularly in these events for the past ten years. Competition has always been close and this spring the various events promise to be more closely contested than ever An additional attraction on this year will be a number of athletic events for girls, and this feature of the meet will be staged in the forenoon. Charleroi expects to have a number of strong contenders for these new events

Charleroi athletes have the edge on the other schools of the county to date in the history of the meet, winning in 1915, 1916 and 1917, and scoring o total of 376 points. Washington is next with wins in 1919 and 1920 and a total of 327 points. Monongahela ranks third with one win in 1914 and a total of 202 points Charleroi is the possessor of the first Observer-Reporter trophy, winning three years in succession.

In the events which are to take place on the 7th of May Charleroi high expects to have a strong team and hopes to make a good showing in the contest.

LOCAL COAL SITUATION NOT VERY PROMISING

Reports continue to come into this district that indicate poor prospects for the lake trade, particularly as far as the local region is concerned. These reports are to the effect that lake buyers are depending on fields closer to the lakes by reason of transportation savings. Another report is that there are large stocks of fuel bought at prices considerably higher than present quotations at the lake heads, with oneresult that holders are determined to rid themselves of this fuel before buying more.

VETERAN COAL OPERATOR IS SUDDENLY TAKEN BY DEATH

Capt. W. Harry Brown Expires Suddenly at His Home in Pittsburg

A MAN OF ADVANCED IDEAS

Capt. W. Harry Brown. for the past forty-five years intimately connected with the coal interests of the Monongahela valley. died suddenly at his home in Pittsburg, Thursday afternoon, April 28 aged 65 years.

He was a son of the late Captain William H. Brown, one of the pioneer coal operators of the valley and Mary Smith Brown. His father died in 1875 and at the time of his death was the largest coal operator and steamboat owner in Western Pennsylvania. In 1876 upon the completion of his education Capt Harry Brown and his brothers organized the firm of W. H. Browns' Sons Company, which carried on the coal business for many years, and which was dissolved in 1897 when Capt. Harry Brown retired, leaving his brother Capt. Samuel Brown as the sole owner. The Brown interests were later incorporated in the Monongahela River Consilidated Coal and Coke company.

After leaving the Brown firm, however. Capt. Harry Brown did not cease his business activities. being largely interested in coal and coke with the Washington Coal & Coke company, and with the firm of Brown and Cochran.

Later Capt. Brown. became the owner of the farm where the Alicia mine is located above Brownsville, this property coming to him through the estate of his brother Samuel, who had owned it for years. He opened Alicia mines Nos. 1 and 2, and where he constructed a large number of coke ovens, and also where he prepared to again enter the river coal trade. A few years ago the coal interests at Alicia were sold to the Pittsburg steel company, which is now operating the plant and the steamboats and other floating property.

During his business career Mr. Brown was noted for his keen judgment and advanced ideas. Several years ago he conceived the idea of building a self-propelled combination towboat and coalboat, which was to have been built along lines of the Great Lakes whaleback ore carriers. He started construction of the craft at his plant at Brownsville and work was well advanced when the United States declared war against Germany. Due to troubles in getting the necessary skilled labor in the war days Mr. Brown was compelled to postpone the building activities on the huge boat. Later. when he sold his interests to the Pittsburg Steel Company, the craft was included in the bill of sale. The latter company has since transformed the craft into a self-unloading coke barge.

Capt. Brown was widely known as a sportsman and enthusiastic yachtsman and was a member of several of the leading clubs in his home city and in New York.

REDUCES WAGES AT BOAT YARD PLANT.

Superintendent Beechley, of the government boatyards at Lock No. Four, received instructions from the Adjutant General at Washington on Wednesday of a further reduction in wages to men employed at the local plant. This additional reduction. which is in effect on and after May 1st, amounts to about ten per cent on present wages. Monthly men are not affected by the reduction.

THOUGHT OUT BY JUVENILES

Examination Papers in American Public Schools Are Replete With Unconscious Humor.

Every once in awhile some school teacher reveals to the world some of the unconscious humor of her pupils [illegible] in their school tests. One such answer sent by a schoolmarm of Springfield, S. D., sounds like it might be a criticism of much of the literature of the day, for the pupil remarks:

"Sentiment is mostly of dust or other impurities that it may get and this usually settles at the bottom."

Another answer seems to disclose a serious disorder from which the moon is suffering, leading to the conjecture that what pseudo scientists have mistaken for efforts to signal the earth may be but frantic calls for the doctor. The pupil says:

"The moon has sort of blisters on it, some of them have busted and have formed deep crusts."

"Rivers carry their load in solution and expansion," but qualifies this disconcerting statement with another which says: "Ben-factors which influence the amount of runoff are, if they are streams in deserts, most generally they are always short."

Another young scientist explains the formation of snow by the statement that it is formed by the freezing of the atmosphere that is on the air, and another explains the formation of rain as the small particles of ice that get so big they cannot stay in the air, and so come down as rain. — May Stranathan in the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

EXPERT CATCHING OF TURTLE

In the neighborhood of Cuba a peculiar method of securing turtles is pursued. The people train, or at least take advantage of the instincts of a certain species of fish, called by the Spanish reve (meaning reversed), because its back is usually taken for its stomach.

It has an oval plate attached to its head, the surface of which is traversed by parallel ridges. By this plate it can firmly adhere to any solid body it may choose. The boats which go in quest of the turtles each carry a tub containing a number of these reves.

When the sleeping turtles are seen they are approached, and as soon as they are judged near enough a reve is thrown into the sea. Upon perceiving the turtle its instinct teaches it to swing right toward the turtle and fix itself firmly upon the creature by means of its disk. Sooner would the reve allow itself to be pulled to pieces than give up its grip.

A ring which is attached to the tail of the fish, in which a string is fastened, allows the fisherman to pull in his prize. By a peculiar manipulation the reve is pulled off and returned to the tub, to be ready for use the next time a turtle is sighted.

The habit of measuring up now will save you time and trouble later on. Life's loads are not going to get any easier to carry as population increases. There will be keener competition and more people to compete. The only hope for you will be such developed skill that you will naturally lead in the things you attempt. That means you will make trial of every talent and so train what you have that no effort is spent in vain. This develops the most determined effort and fitness in the fellow who is willing to do his best. Then as the bigger problems come with the years you will be trained in doing your best under every circumstance and success is bound to hover over your efforts. There is no better time than the present to begin. Keep going and make every new idea contribute to your growth and you are bound to succeed.

Long Life for a House Fern.

In the living room of an Oxfordshire (England) country house is a maidenhair fern that has just celebrated its fifty-sixth birthday. It is now some two feet across and very fine, fresh and young in complexion. A year or two ago it seemed to be falling into the sere and yellow leaf and was threatened with its first illness. But after consulting with a local specialist the owner (who has tended her plant herself for 56 years) gave it a dose of cod liver oil. The brownness that threatened to invade the whole plant soon disappeared under the treatment, and it is now as vigorous and as green as ever. This maidenhair has, it before, not only lived 56 years, but is still in the stage of active growth and development.

Fiji Islands.

Fiji comprises a group of over 200 islands (about 80 inhabited) lying between degree 15 and degree 21 south latitude, and between meridians 177 and 178 west longitude in the south Pacific. The largest island is Viti Levu, area 4,053 square miles. The total area of the Fiji group is 7,083 square miles. According to the latest census taken in April, 1911, the population was 139,541, the Europeans numbering 3,707. There are 2,144 East Indians on the islands. The remainder of the population consists of natives. The capital is Suva, on the south coast of Viti Levu. The European population of the town is about 1,400.

ON GUARD AGAINST FORGERS

Men of Money Devise Secret Signs Which Inform Bank Cashiers That Checks Are Genuine.

So clever is the modern forger that the man who relies on a signature which is hard to copy is liable at any moment to find himself victimized and his account depleted.

In order to prevent the successful uttering of a forged check, several men have hit upon devices which even the smartest criminal could hardly detect.

For instance, there is an American millionaire who makes a tiny blot on some part of the check as a sign to the bank cashier that it is genuine. Not one forger in a thousand would attribute a blot to anything but carelessness, and quite a number of would-be swindlers have found themselves pulled up sharply on presenting an unblotted check over the counter.

Another man has hit upon the idea of apparently making a mistake in the date in the right-hand top corner of the check, which mistake is rectified by the crossing out of the wrong numeral and the substitution of the correct one. The check forger would hardly regard such an apparent blunder as the result of deliberate intention.

A Frenchman with whom this subject was discussed stated that his own method is an almost infallible one. Whenever he writes a check, he takes the precaution of tearing it out of his check book in such a manner that a tiny shred of the counterfoil remains attached to the draft. This is an intimation to the bank that the check is genuine.

Perhaps, however, the most extraordinary device is that adopted by a wary Hebrew. He makes a point of carefully perfuming every check bearing his signature with a certain scent which is very difficult to obtain.

A young bride, whose maid had failed to return after her day out, was questioning her friend, who had had the last conversation with Jane.

"But, dear, are you sure that you said nothing to—er—hurt her feelings?"

"Of course not," replied Mrs. Brown. "I merely said it was strange that she and my diamond brooch disappeared at the same time."

Sharp Reminder.

When person of any kind is brought into the house it is a good plan to immediately run two common pins through the cork, opposite each other with the pin points extending about an eighth of an inch past the heads on each side. The prick of the pin gives warning by day or night the instant the cork is touched and proves an efficient safeguard against mishaps.

Opals Found in Few Places.

There are known only five gem-opal regions in the entire world. For 500 or 600 years, a deposit in a remote section of northern Hungary has been mined by local peasants. The removal of opals from this region ceased about 20 years ago. For the most part, stones from northern Hungary are milky white.

TRUE, BUT BELATED.

The Constitution recognizes the right of the people of each State to control their own affairs, assuming that self-government is the ideal but as Federal Judge Dickinson points out, there has long been a lessening of the old popular devotion to local self-government and to the restriction of Federal activities to their proper field. The attitude of the people has changed, says Judge Dickinson, with the result that Federal departments commissions, bureaus, etc., have multiplied almost without number, "with an enormously increased cost of government, a heavy burden of taxation, deceased efficiency, decreased accomplishment, and the loss on the part of the people of all desire and capacity for self-government." Formerly we were "jealous of our right to govern ourselves," now we "seem unwilling to take the trouble," eagerly thrusting in to the hands of an encroaching Federal government duties and problems which it was originally intended for the States themselves to perfordm and solve.

Judge Dickinson cites the amendment providing direct election for Senators, the prohibition amendment and the woman suffrage amendment as examples of this tendency and as Federal invasions of State jurisdiction. But the real revolution came with the Civil War amendments, and it has been gathering strength ever since. Dominant parties and factions have long been unwilling to await action by states and have repudiated the old principle of home rule in their haste to gain their ends quickly throughout the country by means of Federal action. Judge Dickinson utters words of truth and soberness, but so belated, so long after the events or events, that his discussion in great part necessarily partakes of the nature of the purely academic.

Though he may have received no definite promises in official quarters, Viviani went home assured that this country is as friendly toward France as ever and has no sympathy with Germany's efforts to escape her obligations.

Convicted by the Bible.

A local man charged with not having the tail light burning on his automobile was arraigned before the mayor, who assessed a fine of $5.

The accused protested, said it was a poor law under which he was fined and that he did not think it would hold water in court.

The mayor declared any law founded on the Bible was good enough for him. The defendant said he couldn't see where a tail light had anything to do with the Bible. The mayor looked pityingly at the accused, and said:

"Do you remember the tale about the ten virgins, five of whom had lights and five of whom didn't? Well, if you do, you will remember that the Lord wouldn't have anything to do with the five without lights, and neither will this court."

Study of "Instinct."

It is a matter of some dispute just to what extent the actions of animals are determined by pure unreasoning instinct. It has been stated that a frog will snap at any small moving object regardless of its character, and of hunger or satiety. Some experiments seem to indicate that the frog is capable of greater discriminations than has been credited to him. Thus, for example, a frog was offered hairy caterpillars, which it promptly seized, and with equal promptness spit out again. But after about four to seven such injudicious attempts the frog had learned his lesson, and thereafter refused similar fare. In another experiment earthworms were so connected with a source of electricity that the frog received a shock on touching the worm. The frog duly devoured the prey, and showed no sign of discomfort. However, he refused for seven days to touch another earthworm. Similarly, the frog would be taught to avoid worms in which oil of cloves had been spread, although such "doctored" prey was not spit out, but only digested.

THE FRANKLIN
Less Expense, Less Trouble, Better Service

Franklin economy is enough in itself to justify your choosing a Franklin these days. New conditions have given a new significance to the familiar Franklin figures below.

Yet economy was never the only aim—nor the only good result, of the Franklin. The principles behind it were adopted, and continued, for the superior service they gave in other ways, too.

Light weight makes the Franklin easier and safer to haddle as well as more economical of gasoline; flexibility makes it more comfortable as well as easier on tires: direct air cooling frees it from the annoyance as well as from the expense of radiator troubles.

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50 pc. slower yearly depreciation

INDIANS NEAR TO EXTINCTION

Descendant of Osages Says Intermarriage Has Weakened Them So Much That End Is Apparent.

John R. Spurrier of Oklahoma says that the Indian will be extinct in a generation or two. Mr. Spurrier, who is a descendant of the Osage Indians and whose wife is also of Indian blood, says that constant intermarriage is so weakening the tribes that the nation which numbered over a million at the time this country was discovered will soon be only a name.

"The extinction of the Indian is only a matter of a short time," said Mr. Spurrier. "Intermarriage is proving fatal to the tribes, and they cannot long survive it. With intermarriage comes the Americanization and the Indians who have adopted modern methods live in extremely comfortable style.

"The richest small group of people in the world are the Osage Indians, whose reservation is in Osage county. There are 2,200 Indians in this tribe, 500 of them being of full blood who still wear their blankets, but the remainder have forsaken the ways of their ancestors and have become extremely American. The reason for the great wealth of this tribe is that their lands happen to be situated in the midst of the largest oil fields of Oklahoma, and the yearly annual income per capita averages approximately $2,500.

"The Osage Indians are the best educated tribe in the country, and also the best physical specimens. It was from this tribe that Buffalo Bill chose a number of his famous chieftains. The reservation of the Pawnee Indians adjoins that of the Osages and this tribe numbers 3,000, many of them prosperous and well educated."

TOOK OATH 'BY THE PEACOCK'

When Philip of Burgundy and His Knights Vowed to Engage to War for Holy Land.

In 1453 Philip the Good, duke of Burgundy, vowed "by the peacock" to go to the deliverance of Constantinople, which had recently fallen into the hands of the Turks. At the conclusion of the tournament and banquet held by the duke at Lille, Holy Mother Church, in the guise of a lady in mourning seated on an elephant and escorted by a giant, approached the duke and delivered a long versified complaint, claiming the aid and succor of the Knights of the Golden Fleece.

The herald advanced, bearing on his fist a live peacock or pheasant, which, according to the rites of chivalry, he presented to the duke. At this extraordinary summons Philip, a wise and good prince, engaged his person and powers in the holy war against the Turks. His example was imitated by the lords and knights of the assembly; they swore to God, the Virgin, the ladies, and the peacock.

In this connection will be recalled Praed's brilliant charade, "The Peacock and the Ladies."

As the Lawmakers Slang It.

"'A woman on the industrial board' was killed," announced Mrs. Stella S. King, acting secretary, at a recent meeting of the Legislative Council of Indiana Women. As she read the last word, she realized what she had said and started to laugh. It was in the text of the minutes of the preceding meeting, at which Mrs. King had not acted as secretary, and came in the account of legislative council bills which had been passed, advanced, or "killed."

As it happened, it was a mistake after all, for it was another bill pertaining to the industrial board which had been killed, not that creating a woman member of the board. But for a moment the legislative council forgot its dignity and giggled.—Indianapolis News.

France's Oak Trees Threatened.

While endeavoring to recover from the ravages of war the forests of France are also struggling from the ravages of parasitic growths which seem to be especially disastrous to the oaks. These are the country's most valuable tree, constituting nearly 30 per cent of the forest area. This tree seems to suffer especially from the fungus Oidium, which appeared in the province of Champagne about 1907, and is doing such damage that the extermination of the oak in France is foreseen. Young trees—particularly coppice shoots of the current year—are most susceptible to attack, though seedlings up to ten years of age have been destroyed. No remedy has yet been discovered.

Carrots for Lunch.

As I lived far from school, I had to carry my lunch. One morning my stepmother asked me to go to the grocery store for some carrots, as we had some pet rabbits. When I returned I set the sack on the table and hurried to finish getting myself ready for school. When I had finished she had my lunch ready and told me it was on the table. That day at noon I opened my sack and to my amazement I had the sack of carrots. Of course the girls all laughed and had a good time over it, but I am sure it was the most embarrassing moment of my life.—Chicago Tribune.

Compensation.

"Are you going to take any summer boarders?"

"Remembering, of course, that food cost has been going down."

"Yes. But rememberin' also that rents have been going up."

SPOT COAL MARKET NOT HIGH IN PRICE

"Spot" quotations for coal and coke in the Fayette county region are not at a high altitude as compared with prices received a year ago. Some sales of spot coal have been made recently around $1.80 per ton and from there upwards to $2.25. Furnace coke approximately $3.50 and upwards. It also develops that railroads and other large users of coal are depending on the spot market for supplies, instead of making contracts for a definite amount of tonnage. This means that fuel will be bought during the summer just as it is needed, rather than under an obligation to take a definite and fixed amount. However, it is reported that prospects for the coal business is slowly improving.

LONGEVITY ON THE DECREASE

University Professor Thinks It Is, and Gives Some Cogent Reasons Why It Should Be.

Prof. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins, after an exhaustive study of life probability extending through a historic period of two thousand years, arrives at the conclusion that while man's possibilities of life at birth and in earlier stages has been steadily improving, his expectation of life at advanced age has been steadily decreasing. Comparisons ranging from the Romano-Egyptian to the present day offer statistical proof. The theoretical explanation is that in early times, with less provision for the protection of babies and infants, only the more rugged pulled through. Nowadays with increasing care for childhood, the weak are carried into adolescence and adulthood. Where formerly only the fittest or toughest managed to reach the shady slope of life, and were consequently more likely to hang on to ripe old ages, the salvaging of the weaker brings them into the fifties and sixties with less hope of prolonged life. It sounds plausible and may explain the apparent decrease of longevity. Incidentally, his statistics brought out the fact that while women formerly had less expectation of life at all ages, this has been reversed—another blow to the tradition of "the weaker sex." Women now appear to have the greater probability of prolonged life.

Head of Great Locomotive Works Has More Than Business Acumen to His Credit.

On a hot day last summer an express train between Philadelphia and New York came to a jolting halt, says Nation's Business. The passengers first joked, then grumbled, then grew impatient. A big man, white-haired, but youthful in motion, climbed down from a chaircar and marched up to the engine, which was the center of a ring of passengers.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

In effect, the engineer said that the engine had quit and he didn't know what the several things was the matter with it.

The big man peeled off his coat and waistcoat and rolled up his shirt sleeves. Then he sort of disappeared in the interior of the unwilling engine and the ring of watching passengers grew.

Half an hour later he emerged with a smudged face and grimy hands, and said, "She's all right now," put coat and waistcoat over his arm and walked back to his chair car, wiping his hands on a handful of waste he'd picked up in the cab.

Airplane an Essential Now.

In 50 minutes after the Birmingham office of a Shelby county mine operator had gotten in touch with the mine rescue station at West End, experts at the station had engaged an airplane and with special life-saving apparatus had been landed at the mine, 50 miles distant.

This marks a new field of usefulness for the airplane. Physicians, life-saving experts and mine-rescue apparatus may be carried through the air to the scene of a mine disaster and many lives may be saved by the quick service.

When the airplane has evolved into a medium for the saving of human life, it may indeed be said to have entered the class of the essentially practical.—Birmingham Age-Herald

REALLY NO PROBLEM AT ALL

Case Presented to the Great Sheerluck Bones Hardly Worthy of His Wonderful Brain.

It was the office of the famous detective, Mr. Sheerluck Bones.

The visitor, a man of rather small height but liberal width, sat down.

"Married!" snapped Bones.

"How do you know I'm married?" gasped the visitor.

"By the samples of silk to be matched in your vest-pocket, and your hunted, haunted, expression," replied Sheerluck.

The man gasped.

"It is marvelous how you know things!" exclaimed the man. "But it is about my wife I came to see you. She acts so queerly lately. She talks to herself all the time, stands before her mirror and talks to herself. It's awful! And she does the most terrible things. She'll put a cake of soap in the soup and scrub the pans with the soup bone, talking to herself all the time."

"How long has this state of affairs been going on?" asked the great detective.

"Oh, for about a week now. And, Mr. Bones, I can't stand it any longer. It's driving me crazy. I'm afraid she'll sell the baby for a bundle of rags, or something."

"Hm! Er, isn't it just possible that your wife is merely practicing and rehearsing her speech for the next meeting of the National Women's Rulers of Home league? I see its meeting takes place tomorrow night."

"By Jove! You're right. She is third assistant chairman of that league. I forgot it!"

With a relieved cry, the little man rushed home, and even forgot, in his glad relief, to pay the great detective's fee.—London Answers.

MANY VARIETIES OF SHARK

Some Sea Monsters More to Be Feared Than Others, but All Ferocious to a Degree.

There are many families and varieties of the shark. Some of these families are smaller, more cowardly and less successful as killers than other families, says the Kansas City Star. They are not especially fierce toward things that are bigger and stronger than they. The dusky sharks and the sand sharks are not believed to be man killers, but they are man eaters when the opportunity arrives.

The largest and fiercest shark is the great white shark. His disposition is to kill and eat, and he is so large and strong and self-confident that he will attack anything that swims, and a man is little more than a minnow or a herring to him. The great white shark inhabits the tropic and subtropic seas. The normal length of the teeth is one inch and they are flat, triangular and saw edge. Many of these sharks have been killed that were 30 feet long.

Microbe Factory.

London, England, boasts a microbe factory. Biologists in general, and bacteriologists in particular, are able to serve humanitarian interests only by a close study of authentic strains of recognized bacteria, carefully cultured in their various species and classes. Yet it is only quite recently that the needs of medical workers in this respect have been fully met. For their supply of disease microbes for experimental purposes, British scientists were very largely dependent upon the courtesy of colleagues in other countries. Before the war, for instance, a polite note to M. Binot of the Pasteur Institute in Paris was quite the recognized procedure adopted by a medico who wished to start or add to a microbe menagerie. Characteristically an effort to commercialize this all-important traffic was made by Krai at Prague, but that source of supply was never satisfactory.

Poets and romance writers for ages have been on true ground when they have pictured broken-hearted swains and maidens.

According to Dr. Strickland Goodall, a noted heart specialist, it is a physiological fact that hearts do break. He says joy and not woe or hard work is more frequently the cause of a broken heart. In his long experience he has found that emotion rather than hard work has been responsible for broken hearts.

"Don't get into a temper," says Dr. Goodall, "because it increases the heart's work by seventy-two foot pounds. Running upstairs is foolish, because the increase is 152 foot pounds. If man spends one day in bed weekly he saves his heart 105,400 foot pounds."

A Son's Forecast.

Old Roxleigh—You must be less extravagant. How do you expect to get along when you are my age?

His Son—Well, father, I suppose by that time I'll have your money to get along with.

An Original Copy.

"She wants $10,000 for a kiss?"

"That's the figure named in suit."

"It's exorbitant."

"She claims it was the first ever printed on her chaste lips, in other words, a rare first edition."

At a Party.

"Why are you so anxious to play bridge?" "Somebody will play the piano if we don't."

ZIEDMAN'S, where Your Dollar has Regained its Old-Time Value

LOWER PRICES

We have followed one line and had one goal before us since the day the war ended, namely, that food stuffs would seek a lower level.

We were right in our decision.

Today our entire list of over one thousand articles in our own stock will show fully 40 per cent decline from the high point, and the greater part of the line now is on a safe basis to buy, especially with the late frost conditions affecting practically the whole line of canned goods, and also the fact that many goods cannot be produced at present low prices until the overhead settles back near pre-war basis.

So we are now ready to say that it matters not what the weather may be from this on, most goods are on a safe basis for the remainder of 1921.

FEMINISTS ARISE IN PERSIA

Insist That Veils Are No Longer Required and That Women Are Independent Thinkers.

That feminine fractious will not be covered by law, even if its present wearer be modern and a subject of Pirst Jenabe Chief of the Queen's Council, of fashion, has indicated, appears to be certain to be greatly on the feminine movement in Persia.

While some American and European ladies have been imprisoned and fined for the outrage their presence on streets in Persia were doing the persons because they insisted on their right on the walk. The shrewd bonzes in majority that the jails in Persia were overcrowded and to despair the government requested that no more ladies may appear on the streets of Persia without the veil imposed by the state religion is regarded over here as a great triumph in the emancipation of womankind.

Professor Fazel, who holds the chair of philosophy in the only university for women in Persia, spoke in musical Persian, his sentences being interpreted as he went along by Mirza Ahmed Sohrab, former secretary of the Persian legation at Washington, and likewise a believer in the emancipation of the women of the Orient. Both are followers of the Bahai philosophy, through the teachings of which the Persian women attained what independence of thought and action they enjoy today.

According to the Persian savant, it is the destiny of women to become members of the congresses and parliaments of all the countries of the world.—San Francisco Chronicle.

ROME HOME OF GLUTTONS

Taste of Ancient Emperor Vitellius Said to Have Cost Him $1,500 Every Day.

Very little is known of the food of the ancient Egyptians, authorities say, after explaining that the dwellers in the Nile valley were so fond of their cabbage that they deified it.

The Romans raised a great hurroo about the art of the Athenian cooks they captured, history records. But the delicate aroma of the Grecian pot was never meant to satisfy the thick Roman palate. Rome, in its pursuit of physical pleasure, discarded its cabbage and sought for rare and delicate viands. Pollio, it is said, fed the flesh of human slaves to his fowls to invest their meat with a new flavor. Emperor Vitellius' daily market expense was $15,000. At one banquet he dispensed 2,000 kinds of rare fish and 7,000 bird species. His table cost him $20,000,000 for one four-month period. To arouse their jaded appetites, it is written, the Romans ate brains of humming birds, tongues of nightingales and roes of the rarest fish.

Testamentary to the skill of the Grecian cook is the story of the fish which was so much of a sport and artist that he smiled in admiration in the face of the chef who was frying him so deftly and with such flavor.

You are not true to yourself when you are satisfied with doing what others have done. You may by nature be fitted for very much greater work than your neighbors. You may also be short on some points wherein they are strong. In either case it would not be fair to measure yourself by them. There are certain things you can surpass in. In these you should greatly excel if you attain your possibilities. So measure yourself in the light of your ability and the opportunities offered by the problem. Then put yourself to the task of hitting off 100 per cent efficiency in every attempt. Of course you will find it hard If it were not, every lad in the community would be doing what you are trying to do. So look for results and see that you get them.—Exchange.

Tractors in Arctic.

Tractors are crawling over the snowfields of northern Greenland with supplies of the Lance Koch polar expedition. At last the dog team of the Eskimo has a partial substitute. With their adaptable caterpillar tread, the tractors, like the army tanks, are able to negotiate sharp grades and even wallow over obstacles, along their trackless course. Not that the picturesque dog is to be altogether displaced. For heavy transportation the tractor is useful, but when it comes to the mails the dog teams will still be an essential of the rural delivery service in the land of the igloo.

Novel "Touring Cars."

Tours of the battlefields of France are now made by means of "road pullmans" which are very commodious trailers hitched onto the rear of a powerful touring car, and in this the traveler eats and sleeps. A party of six persons can be accommodated easily on one of these cars, and if they are willing to crowd in, a few more may be taken along.

Training Mine Rescuers.

The United States government maintains nine railroad cars traveling among the miners of the country, teaching them first aid, mine rescue and other things which are likely to be of special interest to them. In addition to this there are trains maintained to rush to the aid of miners who may be injured or trapped in mines.

Our BROADWAY Model

The foundation of your suit is its fabric. Upon it everything else depends as a suit made from inferior cloth cannot be properly tailored: will not hold its shape nor give satisfactory service.

For us to use other than the best cloth for Victor clothes would be foolhardy. To do so would be to waste the fine Victor custom-quality tailoring, so we make doubly sure that every yard of cloth that goes into Victor clothes is GENUINE ALL WOOL.

Broadway, New York

Lower Broadway, New York, is another of the show places of the city. The Singer and Woolworth buildings showing in this view are the two tallest buildings in the world. Victor clothes are the highest quality moderately priced clothing made, so it is only natural to name one of the many Victor styles after this street of high buildings.

The Broadway

is a two button sack model with semi-peaked lapels. This is a style that is not too extreme nor too conservative—just the model for the man who wants to be fashionably dressed without being "flashy". In the complete Victor line you are sure to find YOUR particular style.

It is this assurance of all wool fabrics, and the consequent long wear and satisfactory service of Victor clothes, which makes them the best moderately priced ready-to-wear clothing on the market.

TOO MANY WIVES IN MONESSEN HOME

The Jersey City broker who housed two "wives" under the same roof was rivaled in Monessen, when facts were brought to light on Monday. wherein Mike Veljio. a dapper young Croatian, who, although having two women in his house. had failed to take out a marriage license for the second. The case was brought to light Monday morning in the Monessen police court, Veljio having been arrested after he had "punched" his lawfully wedded wife on the nose for objecting to his new infatuation.

Veljio with his family of wife and two children led a happy existence at 97 Schonmaker avenue in that town until recently. when, at the solicitation of his sister in the old country, he agreed to give one of her children a home in this country .In due time a pretty miss of 21 summers arrived at the Veljio home. and then trouble began. Mike paid more attention to the newcomer than to his wife. He took the young lady to the moving picture shows and other places of amusement, leaving his lawfully wedded wife at home to look after domestic duties.

Her objections were tossed aside in an airy manner. Mike and his neice in the meantime becoming apparently more and more enamored of one another. Things went from bad to worse, and the climax was reached when one of the children entering the home while the mother was out shopping found the father and the other woman occupying the bedroom. When informed of the occurrance Mrs. Veljio took her husband to task, when he struck. and the affair ended in the police court.

After the hearing Mike was fined $10.00 and costs. while the neice was assessed the costs in the case, both of which were paid by Veljio. The latter stated he would leave his wife and secure a divorce, and left the court room arm in arm with the neice, while the wife and their little daughter followed.

COUNTRY CLUB SEASON IS OPEN

The season of 1921 was inaugurated at the Monongahela Valley Country Club, Thursday evening. by an informal dinner dance at the Club House, located on the Carroll Hills, near Monongahela. The weather was not propritious, but in spite of this fact there was a large attendance of members, who enjoyed a season of festivity that was pleasing in every respect. Many of the members took dinner at the Club house, and this number was largely augmented at a later hour by members and their families who came to enjoy the dance.

The club house has been put in fine shape for the coming season, and with the adoption of house rules and regulations members will have a better understanding of their privileges in relation thereto. The house committee has been very careful to safeguard the interests of all. and with this understanding it is the consensus of opinion that the season now opening will be a most enjoyable one. The club house will be open every day from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m., where members may obtain meals or lunches, while all the facilities and accommodations will be at their disposal during these hours throughout the season.

The golf links are now officially open. and many members are preparing to use them to a greater extent than ever.

GARDEN MAKING POPULAR IN FAYETTE COUNTY

Thousands of coal and coke workers in Fayette county, the irregular vocations curtailed, are utilizing their energies to be a record breaking garden season for that region. Frick company superintendents, in view of the present situation, have turned over to the employes every available bit of ground both at operating and idle plants for garden purposes. The ground is provided, plowed and fertilled free of charge. This policy is also followed at many of the independent plants in Fayette county.

ADRIAN ONLY ENGLISH POPE

Is Said to Have Been Elevated to High Office Contrary to His Own Inclinations.

Pope Adrian IV was by birth an Englishman. and the only one of that nation who ever occupied the papal throne. He was a native of Langley, in Hertfordshire. He was born before A. D. 1100. His real name was Nicholas Breakspear. He is said to have left England as a beggar, and to have become a servant or lay brother in a monastery near Avignon, in France, where he studied with such diligence that in 1137 he was elected abbot. His merits soon became known to Pope III. who made him cardinal-bishop of Albin in 1146. and sent him two years later as his legate to Denmark and Norway, where he converted many inhabitants to Christianity. Soon after his return to Rome, Nicholas was unanimously chosen pope against his own inclination. in November, 1154. Henry II of England, on hearing of his election, sent the abbot of St. Albans and three bishops to Rome with his congratulations.

Must Keep on "Making Good."

Life is an everlasting struggle. Nothing but the keenest attention to its great problems will bring lasting success. There are many that gain temporary attention and they think they have made a name for themselves. The fact is there are thousands of others with just as much head striving for a place in the sun. They are watching every loophole for an opportunity. Often the fellow who starts right with a small lead can achieve almost anything he sets out to. So folks have learned to take advantage of everything that turns up or that they can turn up. That means you are never safe in resting on past laurels. It's a case of making good eternally or falling down before you have finished your course.
